God's Universal Laws

The Law of Individualization

Since we are pure consciousness energy, we have nothing to deal with but our own thoughts. Each of us, as individuals, is a focal point in the infinite consciousness or energy field in which we all live. We all use our mind connected to the One Mind (Source) in our own unique way. We have spoken to this point of our own unique, basic thought patterns concerning the nature of "Life" or the Nature of Reality. When you combine this understanding with what you learned in the first Law—that thought is the cause of everything we experience—you will understand why everyone must also be living in his or her own unique world, in his or her own reality, based on his or her view of what reality is. What my Reality is different from your Reality or the next person, and the next, and the next to every person living in this physical form. In essence, since thought is creative, whatever you think the world looks like, that's what the world looks like to you.

Quantum physics has demonstrated that we all live in and are a part of one massive field of energy. Everyone is simply a focal point of consciousness within this field. Quantum physics also teaches us that all phenomena, be it living beings or so-called inanimate objects, are made up of the same energy. In other words, everything—you, me, our houses, our computers, our cars, the food we eat—everything, can be broken down into the same basic units or components called atoms. These atoms can be broken down even further into sub-atomic particles, which can be broken down into waves of energy. At this level of perception, all of creation is one vast field of energy. One vast unified whole. What we experience as "Life" is what "pops" out of this field because of the focus of our attention. ³⁶
